

January Honor Workers

Sara Hermanson - For the past three years, Sara has been a dedicated, conscientious, and concerned student worker and TA who takes her responsibilities to heart and helps her colleagues with a passion. Sara has been conducting study sessions and helping to teach Zoology students for many semesters. Sara is very deserving of the honor worker award for her sustained commitment to the students she serves and the faculty members she assists. – Dr. Zalisko

Mikey Garrett - Mikey is industrious and highly self-motivated. Mikey is able to identify what needs to be done and make sure it happens. This semester she has taken on cleaning out and organizing years and years of stored items in the Bothwell hall cabinets, turning those cabinets into a better use of space for all of us. Her work in organizing the Madrigal Dinners this fall was professional and very efficient. She is an excellent leader and role model for other student workers in the department. – Dr. Zobel

Jacob Liefer - As radio station director, Jacob has gone far above and beyond the “call of duty.” Before Jacob came on board the radio station was slow to develop. What Jacob has done is nothing short of remarkable. He has mastered the DJ software and hardware completely, auditioned prospective DJs in a professional manner, organized and managed recording sessions with DJs, and enthusiastically promoted the station through flyers. The radio station has surpassed my expectations primarily through the efforts of Jacob Liefer. – Dr. Curtis

Melissa Jones - Melissa is creative, well-organized, and possesses the kind of disposition that makes her extremely approachable. She has designed learning games for the department’s Study Buddy field experience, conducted sessions to review Basic Computer Competency with education students, and has been the Student Liaison for the Connect the Dots program for four semesters. In addition, Melissa became an Authorized Driver at the college and has accepted the responsibility of driving the school vans to transport ED 200 students to Springfield long after she completed the class. Her maturity and responsible attitude are also commendable. - Mrs. Reid

Congratulations, January honor workers!
