

September Honor Workers

Linda Orlandi - Linda... is self starting, self motivated, highly responsible, and, according to the students she tutors, very effective. – Dr. Camp

Scott Forbes - Over the summer and increasingly this fall, [axolotl salamanders] have been dying due to a mysterious illness. Although still not resolved, Scott's independent efforts to identify and culture potential causes using techniques newly acquired in his microbiology class this fall have come to a very likely conclusion. All of these efforts were...well above and beyond our expectations. Few students are as deserving of this honor worker award. It is a privilege to have such dedicated students working for me. – Dr. Zalisko

Callie Cummings - Callie gives more than a hundred percent in quantity and quality of work. Callie has demonstrated that she can work on multiple tasks and still be very organized and enthusiastic about her job. She always shows a positive attitude and encourages the other assistants and students in our classrooms to practice the Spanish language as much as possible. She is a great team leader and a good communicator. She takes appropriate initiative when it comes to setting and accomplishing short and long-term goals. – Dr. Ramirez

Alisa Schrader -After seeing [Alisa] work, I can say that the success of Noche Latina would not have been possible if it were not for the assistance of such an excellent worker. Alisa broke the record in obtaining gift donations for the [Spanish] department. She returned to work after Noche Latina with a positive attitude and enthusiastically speaking Spanish and encouraging others to use the language as well. Her dedication, energy and hard work are contagious. She is certainly dependable for small or big tasks. – Dr. Ramirez

Congratulations, September honor workers!
